THE PROVINCIAL SUPERINTENDENT OF CENSUS OPERATIONS,

TO

THE POLITICAL AGENT FOR

Poona, 8th July 1890.

SIR,

I have the honour to state that I have called for the Summaries required by para. 9 of Government Circular No. 2018 from the Collectors in the accompanying form, and to suggest that you should have a similar form prepared for each of the charges into which the State has been divided for census purposes, and a copy sent to me. It will be of great service in enabling me to check the indents for enumeration-books, and will enable me to judge whether the work of preparation is proceeding punctually and uniformly and to advise you if it is not. If you agree with me and will inform me of the number of census charges in the State, and the number of blank copies of the form required for each, I will send them to you at once.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient Servant,

W. W. DREW,

Provincial Superintendent of Census Operations.

No 3049 of 1890.

CIRCULAR.

No. 2018.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT (CENSUS).

Bombay Castle, 21st May 1890.

A general census of the Indian Empire will be taken on the night of 26th February 1891.

2. The superintendence and control of the arrangements for enumeration and compilation of the results in this Presidency have been entrusted to a special officer who has been instructed to organize, in concert with the District and Municipal authorities, the necessary measures for taking the census in a complete and accurate manner. All communications on the subject should be made to him as Superintendent of Census Operations.

3. Except in such localities as may be specially exempted by Government, all persons will be enumerated on the night of the census. In such excepted places it will be taken as rapidly as possible immediately after that night.

4. The census will be conducted on the same lines as in 1881, i e., schedules to be filled in by the house-holders for themselves and families will be supplied, except in the Municipality of Bombay, only to Europeans of education and natives of rank. The rest of the population, including the servants of excepted house-holders, will be enumerated on schedules filled in by enumerators appointed for the purpose. These schedules will be supplied bound in a book, to be called an enumeration book.

5. To each enumerator will be assigned a block. He will be subordinate to a supervisor of a circle, who again will be subordinate to the superintendent of a charge, which in ordinary cases will be a táluka, mahál or municipality.

6. As it would be impossible to provide sufficient enumerators to ascertain and record all the particulars required in the schedule in one night, and in order to afford opportunities for a test of their entries by the supervisors, superintendents and superior revenue officers, the enumeration will be done in two rounds. At the first round the enumerator will visit each house in his block and make a preliminary record in his enumeration book as shortly before the census night as will admit of its being thoroughly tested. On that might the enumerator will, for the second round, take the book so filled in round his block, and bring the schedules into conformity with the actual state of things then existing, by striking out the names of persons who have died or left, and adding those who have been born, or arrived since, or been erroneously omitted. The accuracy of the census will depend mainly on the way in which the framing of this preliminary record is supervised by all officers from the Collector down to the supervisor of the circle.

Division of Areas.

7. The first thing to be done is to divide each charge into blocks and circles. The block should be of such size and density that it can be compassed without difficulty by the enumerator in a few hours after nightfall. The supervisor's circle should be small enough to enable him to scrutinize thoroughly all the entries in the preliminary record and personally check a large percentage of them by house-to house visits in each of his blocks and to satisfy himself that the enumerators properly perform their duties on the census night. Ordinarily 60 houses, or about 300 people, should be the maximum for a block, but in compact villages without distant hamlets where the enumerator is a resident official the size may be increased up to 100 houses. The number of blocks in a circle should average about ten.

8. To regulate the division into blocks and circles, the Collector should have prepared, as soon as possible, for each charge a register in one of the following forms :—

DISTRICT. TA'LUKA.

| Revenue No. of Village | Name of Village. | At 1890 Enumeration. | | Main Site, Hamlet, detached House or Place. | Blocks. | | | Circle letter and name, &c., of Supervisor. | Remarks. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | Number of Houses. | Number of Persons. | | Serial No. | Number of Houses. | Name and designation of Enumerator. | | |
| 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | 10 |

DISTRICT. TA'LUKA.

| Ward. | At 1890 Enumeration. | | Quarter, Street, detached House or Place. | Blocks. | | | Circle letter and name, &c., of Supervisor. | Remarks. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Number of Houses. | Number of Persons. | | Serial No. | Number of Houses. | Name and designation of Enumerator. | | |
| 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | |
| | | | | | | | | |

In villages where there are more than one inhabited site, the main village and each separate hamlet and house should be entered in column 5. Also all outlying landing places or camping grounds. The villages should be ranged territorially, so that they may be grouped into convenient circles independently of the revenue numbers. The blocks should be numbered serially for each circle, and the circles lettered for each charge. The list should be carefully scrutinized by the Collector or his Assistant and compared with the topographical or revenue survey map, a tracing from which should be made for each circle for the guidance of the supervisor, to whom also an extract from the register of the part pertaining to his circle should be given. The division into blocks and circles and the preparation of this register, with the exception of the enumerator's name, should be completed by the beginning of August.

9. A summary showing the total number of villages, houses, persons, detached hamlets and blocks should be sent to the Provincial Superintendent for each charge as it is completed.

Preparation.

10. A block list in the following form should be prepared, showing the serial number and description of each house :—

Census Register B (Block List).

| VILLAGE. | BLOCK. | | CIRCLE. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Serial No. | Description of Building or Place. | Principal Occupant. | Remarks. |
| 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 |

It should contain all buildings intended for or used as human dwellings, whether actually occupied at the time or not, and at the end, unnumbered, camping grounds, mooring places and other public places where persons are likely to be found at night. A note should be made in column 4, against any house, to which a private schedule is to be supplied.

11. Simultaneously with the preparation of this list the houses in each town and village should be numbered consecutively, to correspond with the house list, with some cheap material, such as that used for painting boundary marks. The numbering should be continuous for the whole village or town, unless it is so large as to contain more than one circle, in which case the house in each circle should be numbered consecutively with the circle letter prefixed, as B. 25, C. 20.

12.—The main object of numbering houses is to guide the enumerator round his block, and to ensure no house being omitted; but, in order to secure a certain amount of uniformity throughout the Presidency, the following definition of a house should be applied:—"The dwelling place of one or more families, with their dependents and servants, having a separate principal entrance from the public road, street, lane or other thoroughfare." Where there is difficulty in the application of the definition, special instructions should be issued; but it should be generally understood that buildings, like the pol of North Gujarát and like the walled or fenced quarters of the Deccan menials, should not be numbered as one house only, as was not infrequently done at the last census. Doubtful cases may be referred to the Provincial Superintendent.

13. The block lists and house-numbering should be completed and tested before the end of December at the latest. Newly built houses must be added by the enumerator as they are built.

Agency.

14. The preparation of the lists, numbering of houses and making the preliminary record should be done by the ordinary revenue and municipal establishments. For the final enumeration the services of all Government officials serving in the district will be available.

15. As soon as Register A is ready the Collector should prepare an abstract of the agency required for the final enumeration and that at his disposal, and forward it to the Provincial Superintendent. As far as possible the employment of persons who are neither Government, Municipal, Railway nor Local Fund servants should be avoided in the interests of efficiency as well as economy. The rank and file of the Police should not be employed as enumerators, but the services of the superior grades may be used, and should be specially utilized in securing the registration of wandering and houseless tribes. In towns where there is a municipality it should be asked to assist under the provisions of Section 24 (18) of Bombay Act II of 1884. The Collector should ascertain from all the heads of departments the number and grade of their subordinates that will be available in the district. It is hoped that in most districts the number of officials will be sufficient. Where it is not, the Collector should endeavour to enlist the gratuitous services of educated men, especially of watandárs who may not be now officiating, or of school-boys who can enumerate from the dictation of a village officer who cannot write. Complimentary certificates will be given to all voluntary agents who have performed their work efficiently, and presents to those who may be reported to have specially distinguished themselves.

16. Government officials will receive travelling allowance according to the rules of their department. All persons not in the regular táluka or district travelling establishments should be employed as near their home or usual residence as possible. Any allowances that may be specially made will depend upon the efficiency of the work done in the case of officials as well as non-officials.

17. In case official and voluntary agency proves insufficient, the Collector should report to the Superintendent the number of paid enumerators required and the rate at which he can engage them.

18. In rural tracts the Kulkarni will usually be the enumerator of his village or one of its blocks. During the preliminary record an enumerator may have to enumerate several blocks, and a supervisor to supervise more than one circle. An enumerator at the preliminary record may be a supervisor on the census night. But endeavour should be made as far as possible to retain men at the same posts during the whole process. Where possible only permanent revenue officials or superior officials of other departments should be appointed as supervisors, and only men who are well acquainted with the locality.

19. Every person employed must be provided with a certificate of appointment.

Preliminary Record (or first round).

20. Each enumerator will be provided for each block with a bound book of schedules, which besides detailed instructions and a short abstract contains blank pages into which he must copy the block list.

21. The date for commencing the preliminary enumeration must depend upon the number of supervisors permanently available. The less interval between it and the actual census compatible with effective supervision, the better; but it should not be commenced later than January 15th in villages or February 10th in towns.

22. Each supervisor will be supplied with detailed instructions and specimen schedules for his guidance, and it will be his business to see that the enumerators understand their instructions and carry them out.

23. The schedules will be supplied from the Government Central Press bound up in books of uniform shape, but with varying numbers of pages, in the vernacular of the district. As it is important that the printing should be completed early, the Collector should inform the Provincial Superintendent as soon as possible of the number of schedule books required of 24, 40, 60 and 80 pages respectively (exclusive of the 8 pages devoted to instructions, house list, &c.), and also the number of loose sheets (English and vernacular) for persons who fill in their own schedules. Each page has room for 8 entries, and a separate page or pages must be used for each house. In reporting the number of these required, the number of houses to be enumerated in the book and separately should be reported. Care should be taken not to confuse the leaf which contains 16 entries (8 on each side), and is that supplied to private persons, with the page of only 8 entries. Each enumerator should be furnished with the book of most suitable size for his block and with such loose sheets (if any) as are required for private schedules. If his book prove insufficient, a supplementary book of 10 pages should be supplied him. A certain number of these will be supplied to each Collector. An account should be kept by the charge superintendent of all books and sheets supplied to each enumerator, and an extract given to the supervisor before the census night. A receipt should always be taken when they pass even temporarily from one hand to another.

24. The supervisor should cause all errors or omissions, which he may discover, to be rectified, and attest his examination on the back of the schedule book. He should also report their nature to the charge superintendent.

The final enumeration (or second round).

25. If the enumerator on the census night is not the person by whom the preliminary enumeration has been taken, he should be at his post at least two days before the census, and the supervisor must see that he makes himself thoroughly acquainted with the whole of his block, and goes round it all in the day time, identifying each house with that shown on the list.

26. Before the evening of the 26th he must have delivered all the private schedules (if any) at the houses noted in the list.

27. He should begin the enumeration, at latest, as soon as the moon has risen, and go round the block in the order of the list. He should himself be enumerated at the house where he is then residing. He should read out the entries for each house to its head, and then and there record any necessary correction. All corrections made on the final night must be made in red ink, with which all enumerators should be supplied.

28. The supervisors should during the night visit as many of their blocks as possible and satisfy themselves that the enumerators are properly performing their duty by testing as many of the new entries as possible.

29. The next morning the enumerator will collect the private schedules (if any) that have been given in his block. He will then go to the head-quarters of the circle and in the presence of the supervisor fill up the abstract in the schedule enumeration book, and give up his book or books and loose sheets (if any) to the supervisor. When the supervisor has accepted it as correct, he will sign the abstract and give the enumerator a receipt, and let him go. When he has collected all the enumeration books and sheets, he will compile his circle total of the abstract and take them all to the charge superintendent, who, after satisfying himself as to the correctness of their number, will give a receipt to the supervisor, will compile for his charge the total of the circle abstracts and send it to the Collector without delay, and will forward the schedules and abstracts to the abstraction office according to the directions of the Provincial Superintendent. A certificate showing the days during which he was employed will be given to each supervisor and enumerator by the charge superintendent.

Special Areas and Buildings.

30 Public buildings, such as jails, hospitals, &c., will form each a separate block and be enumerated by the officer in charge.

31. In cantonments the Collector should act in concert with the Military authorities. The latter will be responsible for the enumeration of all persons actually living in regimental lines. The Civil authorities will enumerate all living beyond these limits, including the residents in the Sadar Bazár and all officers not living in regimental lines. The Cantonment Magistrate should work under the direction of the Collector.

32. Special measures will be necessary for the railways, and the Railway authorities will be asked to enumerate their own employés who reside within station limits and the passengers on the census night. Employés living beyond railway limits will be enumerated in the ordinary way by the Collector, who should act in concert with the Railway authorities, in order to prevent people being enumerated both at home and abroad, or escaping altogether.

33. For enumerating the maritime population the Collector should co-operate with the Customs authorities, who will be responsible for the enumeration within port limits.

34. Special instructions for all the above will be issued hereafter.

35. Detailed instructions for enumerators, supervisors and superintendents respectively, in English and vernacular, will be supplied by the Provincial Superintendent.

36. Government would impress upon the heads of all departments which are called on to assist, that while it is in progress the census work must, from its nature, be considered paramount to all other. Revenue officers should consider the supervision of the arrangements as a most important part of their duties while on tour, and should satisfy themselves as to their efficiency. All officers whose work takes them into rural tracts should take every opportunity of explaining the object and nature of a census to the masses; and Collectors and their Assistants should make a point of enlisting, by complimentary letters or other means, the co-operation of persons of rank and influence whose active sympathy will be of use in dissuading people from giving false entries or evading enumeration for themselves and the females of their household.

37. The Collector should send a progress report, showing what has been done in his district towards carrying out these orders, on the 25th of each month, commencing from June 25th, to the Provincial Superintendent.

J. NUGENT,
Chief Secretary to Government.

CENSUS OF 1891.

INSTRUCTIONS TO SUPERINTENDENTS.

1. The census will be taken on the night of 26th February 1891, except in such places as may be specially exempted by Government. The arrangements have been entrusted to a Provincial Superintendent.

2. The information to be asked is given in the appended schedule. To educated Europeans and Natives of rank separate schedules will be supplied which they will be required to fill up for themselves and their families and servants residing in the same house, but not in out-houses.

3. The mass of the population will be enumerated in bound books of schedules called enumeration-books by persons appointed for that purpose and called Enumerators, to each of whom a certain number of houses called a block will be assigned.

4. As it would be impossible to provide sufficient Enumerators to ascertain and record all the information required by the schedule in one night, it will be necessary for each to take his book round his block some days previously to the census night and fill it up in accordance with the answers received from the heads of houses. This process is called the preliminary record or first round. On the night of the census he will again take the book round to all the houses in the block and bring it into conformity with the actual state of things then existing by striking out the names of persons who have died or left the house, and adding those of persons who have arrived or been born since or were accidentally omitted.

5. The Collector will divide the whole district into census charges, at the head of each of which there will be a Superintendent. Usually a táluka or mahál will be a charge, with the larger municipalities, which will each be a separate charge, excluded. The Mámlatdár or Mahálkari will be the Superintendent of the táluka or mahál, and the Collector will arrange with the Municipal Commissioners for the appointment of Superintendents of town charges.

6. The first thing for the Superintendent to do is to divide the whole area of his charge into circles and blocks. The block must be small enough to allow of the Enumerator going round to all the houses in it in a few hours on the census night. Ordinarily it should not contain more than 60 houses or about 300 persons, but when the houses are close together, and the Enumerator is well acquainted with them, it may be increased up to 100 houses. A circle should contain about 10 blocks, and will be under the control of a Supervisor. The circles should be so arranged that all the blocks in the same circle should be near one another. The blocks should be numbered serially for each circle; and the circles lettered for each charge.

7. In rural charges the Superintendent should take the revenue survey or topographical map and open a register in the appended Form A*a*. He should enter the villages in this register according to their situation and after questioning the village officers he should enter opposite to each village in column 5 after the words "main site" any detached hamlets, houses or camping or mooring places that there may be separated from the main site. If a village contains about 60 houses it should form one block. Two or more small villages near together may be made into one block; or a block may contain parts of different villages, or the whole of one and part of another. The main object to be kept in view in arranging the blocks is to give the Enumerators as little walking as possible. He should enter the names of all the available revenue and village officers, against the block or circle of which they are to be in charge.

8. In urban charges the Superintendent should enter the wards or other municipal administrative divisions in column 1 of Register A*b*, and with the help of the city plan, if there is one, divide each of these divisions into blocks of about 60 houses each and circles. It will be convenient to mark off these blocks by letters painted on the houses along the boundary. The Superintendent should enter the names of such municipal servants or volunteers whom he wishes to appoint as Enumerators or Supervisors against the block or circle of which they are to be in charge. It may be that owing to the municipal organization some modification of this register may be found suitable for particular towns. If so, the Superintendent should obtain the Collector's sanction to such modification.

9. When the division into blocks and circles is completed, and the register completed, as far as it then can be, the Superintendent should forward it to the Collector through the usual channel together with a statement of the number of men who are required for Enumerators and Supervisors respectively in addition to the members of the revenue, village and municipal establishments.

10. As soon as the Supervisors are appointed, an extract from the Register A of his circle should be given to each, and also a tracing of his circle from the revenue survey or topographical map, and a copy of the instructions for Supervisors. He should be held responsible for the work of all the Enumerators in his circle.

11. As soon as Register A is completed, a register in the Form B for each block must be prepared by the village or municipal officers. It should show every building which is intended for or used as a human dwelling, whether then actually occupied or not, and also at the end, without separate numbers, all camping grounds, mooring places and other public places where persons are likely to be found at night..

12. At the same time as this list is made, each house should be clearly marked with the number on the list with the material ordinarily used for painting boundary marks. The houses should be numbered according to their situation, and in a town or village which contains more than one block, the whole of one block should be numbered first, before the next is commenced. To prevent confusion the numbers should be consecutive for the whole village or town unless it is a town so large as to contain more than one circle. In that case the houses in each circle should be numbered consecutively with the circle letter prefixed as B 25, C 20. In the case of municipalities, when the houses have been numbered for assessment purposes, it will not be necessary to number them afresh, but the assessment numbering may be adopted, care being taken to renew any illegible or effaced number.

13. On this list the Superintendent will make a note against any house to the occupant of which a separate schedule is to be supplied. But these will be supplied only in very exceptional cases, to Natives of high rank, or educated Europeans.

14. All the work to the end of the preliminary record must be done by the ordinary revenue, village and municipal establishments with such extra gratuitous or paid assistance as may be volunteered or found necessary. For the actual census the services of Government officials of every department serving in the district will be lent for the 25th, 26th and 27th February.

They will be employed as Enumerators and Supervisors, but chiefly as Enumerators. It follows that many members of the revenue, village and municipal establishments will have to do the preliminary work of two or more blocks or circles. It will be an advantage, especially in rural circles, if members of the ordinary revenue line alone are employed as Supervisors and if they are kept unchanged in one circle during the whole of the procedure.

15. In Register A*a*. and A*b*. those only are to be entered as Enumerators and Supervisors who are appointed for the final census. Where a Kulkarni or other person does the preliminary work of more than one block, his name should be entered in the register against that block only, of which he is to do the work on the final night.

16. The date for commencing the preliminary record must depend upon local circumstances, but it should not be later than January 15th in villages or February 10th in towns.

17. Each Enumerator will be provided for each block with an enumeration book. These will be supplied to the Charge Superintendent from the Government Central Press in several different sizes, with the number of schedule pages contained printed on the cover. For each block a book should be supplied containing a few more pages than the number of houses in it. Supplementary books of 10 pages each will be supplied, which should be given to the Enumerator only in case his original book is full, or so nearly full that it is likely not to be sufficient for such additions as are probable on the census night.

18. These books contain detailed instructions for the Enumerators, blank pages for the block list, and an abstract form. The Enumerator must first copy the block list into the book. He must carry out the preliminary record (or first round) according to the instructions to Enumerators. The test of this preliminary record will be the most important of the Supervisor's duties, and one of the most important for all revenue and municipal officers employed on the census.

19. On the receipt of Register A and the statement of persons required for the duties of Enumerator and Supervisor, the Collector will arrange for the employment of the number of extra hands required for each charge. It will be the duty of the Superintendent to assign them their respective blocks or circles and to complete Register A by entering their names in it.

20. When such a person is appointed Enumerator, it will be the duty of the Supervisor to see that he receives the enumeration-book from the person who did the preliminary record of his block, with such record properly filled in, and that he goes round his block and compares the block list with the houses, in the day-time so as to be properly acquainted with the position of each house before the census night.

21. When such a person is appointed Supervisor for the final night, it will be the duty of the Charge Superintendent to see that he receives all the papers connected with his circle from the person who has been performing the duties for that circle, and makes himself acquainted with his duties, and the details of his circle.

22. Before the final night the Enumerator must leave the private schedules (if any) at the houses for which they have been sanctioned. On that night at latest immediately after moonrise he must take his enumeration-book round every house in his block and bring it into conformity with the actual state of things then existent according to the instructions.

23. On the morning of the 27th February he must collect all such private schedules (if any), and take them with his book or books to the Superintendent. He must fill up the short extract in the book and give it to the Superintendent, who, when he has had it re-added by two other Enumerators and himself, and has found it correct, will take the books and schedules, and give the Enumerator a receipt.

24. When the Supervisor has received all the books and schedules with the abstracts filled in, he will take them to the Charge Superintendent, who, on satisfying himself of their correctness, will forward them to the abstraction centre according to the directions of the Provincial Superintendent, after he has compiled for his charge the total of the circle abstracts and sent it to the Collector.

25. Public buildings, such as jails, hospitals, &c., will form each a separate block and be enumerated by the officer in charge.

26. For cantonments, ports and railways special instructions will be issued. Residents and travellers within their limits will be enumerated by the Military, Customs and Railway authorities respectively. Care must be taken that there is no doubt as to these limits.

27. The following points should be carefully noted :—

That every person employed on census duty must be supplied with a certificate of employment.

That accounts must be kept of all books and forms issued.

That a receipt must be given whenever an enumeration-book or schedule passes even temporarily from one hand to another.

28. The Collector should be referred to on all the points of difficulty.

29. The Charge Superintendents and revenue, municipal and village officers of all grades must consider the census work as from its nature paramount to all others, while it lasts. They must use their utmost exertions to see that all orders are carried out accurately and punctually. They should explain the object and nature of a census to the masses and enlist by all means in their power the sympathy of persons of rank and influence.

BOMBAY: PRINTED AT THE GOVERNMENT CENTRAL PRESS.

CENSUS OF 1891.

INSTRUCTIONS TO SUPERVISORS.

1. When you are appointed, you will receive from the Superintendent an extract from Census Register A for your circle, called the Circle List, and in most cases a map or plan of it. You will also receive a block list for each block and Enumeration-books and Instructions to Enumerators.

2. You must make yourself thoroughly acquainted with all these instructions. You must call all your enumerators together, and explain to them their duties, and question them to see whether they understand them properly.

3. You will give to each an enumeration-book according to the size of his block, and take a receipt for it.

4. You will see that the block list is copied out properly in the pages intended for it in the enumeration-book.

5. Until the day appointed for the commencement of the preliminary enumeration (or first round) you will occupy yourself in scrutinizing the circle register and block lists, and ascertaining whether any streets, hamlets, detached houses or camping or mooring grounds have been omitted from the former, or any buildings or camping grounds or mooring places from the latter, and whether there are any newly built houses to be added.

6. It will be as well for each enumerator before beginning to make entries in his book to make some trial entries on blank paper and submit them for your inspection.

7. When they commence the first round, you must go round the blocks as quickly as possible and take frequent tests to satisfy yourself that they are doing their work correctly.

8. When the first round is completed, you must test them all thoroughly on the spot.

9. In testing you must first read the whole record through, and wherever there is an omission you must have it filled in by enquiry at the house. You must remember that in all the columns except Nos. 13 and 14, there must be an entry against every person, so that if you find a blank space in any of these columns, you will know that it requires filling up.

10. While reading the book through, if you come to any entries that are clearly or probably wrong, as if the word male is written against a woman's name, or an infant is shown as literate, or a Musalmán by religion as a Bráhmin by caste, you must make enquiries, and alter an entry which is found to be incorrectly recorded.

11. You must also test a considerable number of the entries which do not appear on their face to be wrong.

12. All mistakes found are to be corrected and reported in writing to the Charge Superintendent.

13. You must bear in mind that you are not to make alterations because your opinion may differ from the house-holder as to any information given. It is only when the enumerator has omitted an entry or made one contrary to the information given, or when the information has been given under a misunderstanding that you are to make alterations. You should accept the house-holder's statement, but if you think he has made any wilful mis-statement you should make a report to the Charge Superintendent.

14. Whenever you test an enumerator's book you must sign and date it on the cover.

15. If any of the enumerators for the final enumeration (or 2nd round) on the 26th February is a person specially appointed and therefore not the person by whom the first round was completed, you must see that he receives the enumeration-book from his predecessor. You must also see that he understands the limits of his block, and goes round it with the block list, and identifies each house by its number before the evening of the 26th.

15. If any enumerator's book is full or so nearly full as not to leave room for as many additional duties as are likely to be required at the 2nd round, you must supply him with a supplementary book.

16. For any block in which there are houses to be supplied with loose schedules (called householder's schedules) to be filled up by the householder himself, you must deliver such schedules to the enumerator on his receipt, and take care that he delivers them at the houses before the evening of the 26th.

17. You must take care that all the enumerators are supplied with red ink before the evening of the 26th.

18. On the night of the 26th you must go round as many of the blocks in your circle as you can, and satisfy yourself that the enumerators are properly performing the 2nd round.

19. On the morning of the 26th February the enumerators must bring their books and loose schedules (if any) to a place previously fixed upon within the circle. You must look through the red ink entries, and if any appear to be wrong, you must satisfy yourself by enquiries at the house, and have them corrected if necessary.

20. When you have accepted the schedules as correct, you will require the enumerator to make the short abstract in the form contained in the enumeration-book. You will have it re-added by two other enumerators and yourself, and if found correct, you will take the book and schedules from the enumerator and give him a receipt and let him go.

21. When all the books and schedules have been received, you will compile an abstract for the whole circle in a form to be supplied to you for the purpose, and take it with the books and schedules to the Charge Superintendent. When he is satisfied as to their correctness, he will give you a receipt and certificate and let you go.

22. As the preliminary record is only a means towards making the final record as perfect as possible, it is not considered necessary to enter at the first round persons' names at a house where they are only staying temporarily and where it is known they will not be staying on the census night, but permanent residents away temporarily and expected back before the census night should be entered.

23. On the census night each person must be enumerated at the house where he is then actually residing, i.e., the house at which or from which he takes his meals. Cases of difficulty with respect to persons not actually present in the house when the enumerator comes round will occur. The great test is whether a person will be enumerated elsewhere. If so he should be omitted. The following, though not actually present, should be held to be residing in the house and therefore enumerated, viz. :—

Persons who have left the house for a short time and will be back before morning to sleep ;

persons who will be out of doors all night, watching crops, shooting, fishing, patrolling, &c., but will return the next day to the house or have their meals sent out to them from it ;

persons who are absent on work even at another house, if they do not take their meals there, as watchmen and sepoys.

But a person who has gone to pass even only one night as a guest at a friend's house, or has gone on a journey by land or water must be omitted from his usual residence.

It follows that persons present for the night on business or duty at a house where they take no meals should not be enumerated in it ; but that persons staying as guests on the census night should be enumerated even if present for only the one night.

24. Travellers are enumerated at the place where they put up for the night of the 26th February or on the railway, boat, &c., where they may be on that night.

Provincial Superintendent of Census Operations, Bombay.

Census of 1891 : Rules for regulating the cost of census operations in Municipalities other than the Presidency towns.

No. 3617.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.

Bombay Castle, 8th September 1890.

Letter from the Government of India, Home Department, Census, No. 5 Census—164, dated 27th August 1890 :—

"The Governor General in Council, having had under consideration the question as to the manner in which the cost of census operations in Municipalities, other than the Presidency towns, should be met, has been advised that in the rules to be laid down for general adoption the following principles should be followed :—

(a) Government should supply to Municipalities free of cost the schedules and enumeration books.

(b) Municipalities should provide all the necessary agency for enumeration, supplemented in such manner as the Local Government may direct by the loan of official subordinates for co-operating in the work.

(c) The abstraction and compilation should be carried out by Government, the Municipality providing towards this object the salary of one abstracting clerk for three months for every ten thousand of the population at the average rate to be settled by the Provincial Superintendent of Census. The cases of small Municipalities of 5,000 inhabitants should be specially considered by Local Governments, and they should be exempted from contribution if this is found justifiable.

(d) The Provincial Superintendent should, in return for the assistance rendered, make over to the Municipality concerned the complete set of its tabulated registers when the compilation for the Province has been completed.

"2. I am to request that the Government of India may be favoured with the opinion of His Excellency the Governor in Council as to the adoption of rules to the above effect in the Bombay Presidency.

"3. I am to explain that where the Mufassal Municipalities Acts do not provide expressly for the expenses of taking a census being met from municipal funds (as they do in Bombay, the Punjáb, the Central Provinces, Burma and Berár), the Government of India consider that such expenditure may legitimately be met from those funds, inasmuch as a census is a measure of general utility, calculated by tending to good administration to promote the well-being of the community residing in the municipal town."

RESOLUTION.—Copies of the letter from the Government of India should be forwarded to the Commissioners of Divisions and the Commissioner in Sind with a request that they will be so good as to favour Government with their opinion after consulting the District Collectors on the rules proposed by the Government of India.

2. The favour of an early reply is requested.

From

W. W. DREW, Esquire, C. S.,
Provincial Superintendent of Census Operations;

To

The CHIEF SECRETARY to GOVERNMENT,
General Department,
Bombay.

Bombay Castle, 11th March 1891.

Sir,

I have the honour to forward the totals of the Census taken on the night of February 26th, compiled from the abstracts made by the enumerators, for the whole of the Presidency except Native States.

2. It is useless to comment on the figures until they have been regularly abstracted and tabulated, but as that cannot be done for several months, I should like to bring to the notice of Government the help I received from all persons concerned in the enumeration.

3. The success of the Census must depend almost entirely on the Collectors, and they, almost without exception, took a thorough interest in the work, and gave a considerable amount of time to inspection. The bulk of the actual work devolved on the Mámlatdárs and village officers, and in the great majority of cases it was well done. During the preliminary record I visited fifteen districts in the Presidency proper, and in most of them the schedules were written up neatly, intelligently and accurately. The abstraction will soon bring to light the cases where it was carelessly done. In Ratnágiri, which, owing to the want of village officers, is perhaps the most difficult district to enumerate satisfactorily, the services of school-masters were largely utilized.

4. All the Municipalities and Cantonments took the Census according to the prescribed rules, but their accuracy depended very much upon the amount of supervision they received from the District Officers.

5. The Southern Marátha Railway made especially good arrangements for the enumeration of their employés and passengers. The other Railway Companies also co-operated.

6. The Census of military lines and ports was taken by the Commanding Officers and Customs Officers respectively, and the returns have all been received. As the preliminary enumeration in their case was taken only a day or two before the final, I am not in a position to say how the work was done, except in Bombay, where it was done very carefully and completely.

7. Except a small number of English forms, which under the Census Commissioner's orders were printed at Calcutta, the whole of the printing work was done at the Government Central Press, Bombay. The punctual manner in which all the very large orders were executed, in addition to the ordinary work, says a great deal for the Superintendent.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your most obedient Servant,
W. W. DREW,
Provincial Superintendent of Census Operations.

W. W. DREW,
Provincial Superintendent of Census Operations.

Memo:- No. 203 / 1891-92
Dharwar 16th April 1891

The Collector of Dharwar has great pleasure in communicating to all concerned the commendation contained in G. R. No. 1176 of 27th April 1891 relating to the late Census.

2 The abstracts from each Charge Superr were punctually received by the Collector within 2 days after the final enumeration & the totals were telegraphed to Simla & Bombay on the third day. Having regard to the size of the District & the distance of many of the Taluka & Mahal stations from the Railway, this result was very creditable.

3 From the progress reports received the Collector knows that all the Divisional officers exerted themselves in a very praiseworthy manner. His Huzur had an especially difficult duty in connection with the enumeration of the travellers from the Gunlar Jatra near Ranibennur. He supervised the enumeration with great zeal and success.

4 Credit is due to all the Inamdars & Mahalkaris all of whom exerted themselves in a praiseworthy manner.

5 Of the Non-official Charge Census Superrs the Collector wishes especially to thank Rao Saheb Vyasrao Desai of Shiggaon and Rao Saheb Ramchandra Bijahatti of Nadi Afzalpur. Surgeon Abdul Ghani Hakim of Gadag gave very active and intelligent supervision & has written an interesting report.

6 The Divisional officers are requested to thank the chief private persons in their charges who gave them assistance. The Collector cordially recognizes the co-operation received from all classes, and the intelligent interest shown by them in all the proceedings connected with the late Census.

Resolution of the Government of India in the Home, Revenue & Agricultural department, No. $\frac{2}{71 C 586-c}$ dated the 25th Feb. 1881.

Circulars

Resolution.

The question having been raised whether the forms required for census purposes in Kashmir & the native States of Rajputana should be supplied to them free of cost, the Govt. of India are pleased to lay down the following principles which should be observed in regard to the supply of forms for census purposes to native states generally.

2. The Government of India will accept the charge ~~of~~ for forms, etc, in the case of small native states, including the states in Rajputana which are unable or find it difficult to meet the expense; but if any of these states desire to defray their own charges, the offer should be accepted. Most of the larger states, including the Kashmir state, will, it is understood, make their own arrangements for procuring the prescribed forms; but no invariable rule need be laid down for dealing with such cases, and it is left to the discretion of the Local Government, or political authorities concerned, to forego recovery of such charges whenever it may seem desirable to do so. No demand should be made for payment except in cases where it has been ascertained that it will be willingly complied with.

Order — Ordered that a copy of the above Resolution be forwarded to the Local Governments, Administrations and Agencies, noted in the margin, for information & guidance; & to the Foreign & Finance Departments & the Census Commissioner for information.

The Govts of Madras, Bombay, Bengal, the North western provinces & Oudh; & the Punjab; the Honorable the chief commrs of the central provinces & Assam; The Hon'ble the Residents in Mysore & at Hyderabad; the Hon'ble the Agents to the Governor Genl, Rajputana, Baluchistan and central India, & the agent to the Governor General Baroda.

RESOLUTION.

In accordance with the practice followed in connection with the census of 1891, the Governor General in Council is pleased to prescribe the following rules for meeting the cost of census operations in Municipalities other than the Presidency towns :—

(i) Government will supply to Municipalities, free of all cost, including carriage from the press, the schedules and enumeration books.

(ii) Municipalities will provide at their own cost all the necessary agency for the enumeration, supplemented, in such manner as the Local Government may direct, by the loan of Government officials to act as census officers. They will also meet such charges for contingencies as may be necessary.

(iii) The abstraction and compilation will be carried out by Government agency, Municipalities contributing funds, the amount of which will be determined with reference to the charge for the census of 1891, which was made at the rate of three months' salary of one abstracting clerk, on an average scale prescribed by the Provincial Superintendent of Census Operations for every ten thousand of the population dealt with, fractions of that total being paid for proportionately on the same scale. Special cases, in which the partial exemption of small Municipalities containing less than that number of inhabitants is suggested, will be considered by Local Governments.

(iv) The tabulated registers when no longer required by the Provincial Superintendent will, in return for the assistance rendered, be made over to the Municipalities concerned, provided that the Municipal authorities undertake to preserve them in good order until the next general enumeration.

Census

Census of 1901.—
Proposals for the abstraction of the results of the —.

General Department.
No. 6211

Bombay Castle,
30th November 1900.

Letter from the Provincial Superintendent of Census Operations, Bombay Presidency, No. 1050, dated the 15th November 1900:—

"I have the honour to forward for the information of Government a note by the Census Commissioner for India regarding the abstraction of the results of the approaching Census and to report that I propose to arrange for the abstraction in this Presidency by offices of the following description—

For Gujaráti districts—one office at Ahmedabad.

For Maráthi districts—one office at Poona, and one office at Ahmednagar.

For Kánarese districts—one office at Belgaum.

For Sind—one office at Karáchi.

For the Town and Island of Bombay—one office in Bombay.

This arrangement is a departure from the system of district abstraction offices inaugurated* by my predecessor Mr. Drew in 1891. My reason for reverting to the former system of centralized offices is that the new method of abstraction by slips described in the accompanying papers is likely to require a very considerable amount of personal supervision if it is to prove the success that is anticipated. I could not possibly supervise offices in every district myself, nor do I think that the work of supervision could well be thrust on the district officers, who would find the task complicated and unduly burdensome. I have, therefore, reduced the offices to six in number, which I propose to control in person. All Collectors whom I have consulted approve of this course. I will submit to Government shortly a detailed scheme of establishment for each of these six offices. I have the honour to suggest that each one should be immediately in charge of a Deputy Superintendent to be appointed by me, who should be a Mámlatdár of standing or an official of somewhat similar rank. I would further propose that the Deputy Superintendents should be appointed not later than February 20th in order that they may receive a short course of instruction from me in Poona or Bombay before they proceed to their offices to make arrangements for the reception of the schedules and the training of the abstractors.

"2. There is, however, one important question that requires to be settled without delay, concerning the abstraction of Census Schedules. In 1891 the marginally noted Native States made their own arrangement for abstraction with the result that the final statistics for these States were not received by the Provincial Superintendent until December 1891 or February 1892, mostly in the latter month. This was very greatly behind the last date of completion of statistics in the district offices of the Presidency. I venture to think that the attention of the States concerned should be invited to this delay, which, if it recurs on this occasion, will render it difficult for me to comply with the orders† of the Government of India requiring all Provincial Reports to be ready by April 1st, 1902, and that they should be asked to state how they propose to provide for more rapid abstraction on this occasion. They might further inform me direct—

1. Cutch.
2. Mahi Kántha.
3. Sávantvádi.
4. Sorath Prant.
5. Hálár Prant.
6. Gohelvad Prant.
7. Jhálávád Prant.
8. Kolhápur.
9. Southern Marátha Jaghirs.
10. Pálanpur.

(1) Whether they will adopt the slip system explained in the attached note, and further

(2) Whether they will in that case depute the heads of the abstraction offices to receive instruction from me with the Deputy Superintendents.

Early information on these points seems to be required.

I am making arrangements for the slips that these States will require for abstraction purposes on the assumption that they will adopt the new system, which is both cheaper and more rapid than abstraction by ticks If any State does not require such provision (the slips cannot be made satisfactorily locally), I might perhaps be informed by telegram of the fact."

From

R. E. Enthoven, Esquire, I. C. S.,
Provincial Superintendent of Census, Bombay Presidency;

To,

The Political Agent Savanur.

Sir,

I have the honour to address you concerning the correct enumeration of Native christians & Mission dependents at the forthcoming census.

2. In a conference recently held at Ahmednagar, at which representatives of the Society for the propagation of the Gospel and the American Mission were good enough to meet me & discuss this question, it was agreed that —

(1) The difficulties to be provided for were limited to questions ~~arising~~ arising out of the headings to cols 4 & 8 of the census schedules.

— (2) As regards col. 4 (Religion & Sect), all natives connected with the mission should be supplied in advance with a written declaration of their religion and sect, which they could show to the enumerator at the time of the census. Baptised converts would be written down as christians. Those in preparation for baptism would be shown as "catechumens" or "Adherents." Others would be entered by their original religion – Hindu, mussalman &c.

(3) As regards col: 8 (caste or tribe), Native christians should be directed to return the name of the caste to which they belonged before their acceptance of christianity. Children (i.e. young or adult descendants) of converts should give the original ~~cat~~ caste of their male parent. christians of two or more generations would ignore the caste column entirely.

3. These principles have been generally accepted by the missions consulted on the understanding that converts will not be pressed for the name of their former caste in cases where they are not disposed to give it. It is suggested that the enumeration of Native christians should be facilitated by providing christian enumerators where such a course is practicable; but in many cases this cannot be done on account of the converts & others dependent on the missions being scattered over many villages in small groups of a few families. Non-christian enumerators are not capable of recording christian sects without some assistance. It is in order to assist them to a correct record that these proposals have been made to the different missions.

4. The substance of this circular will be embodied in Rule 8 of the Rules for the guidance of Supervisors which is about to be issued.

Circular No 15 of 1901.

Poona, 15th April 1901.

To.

Sir,

I have the honour to request that you will intimate to me at a very early date, the names, official positions, & residence of all persons, officials or volunteers, who have rendered conspicuously good service in the recent Census, with a note showing whether you would recommend them for a Sanad of the 1st, 2nd or 3rd class or whether, in the case of volunteers, you would desire to confer on them rewards in cash or pagris of honour according to the practice of 1891.

2. His Excellency the Governor in Council has specially directed the issue of a sanad of three classes on the occasion of the present census, with a view to differentiating between service performed by officials & volunteers of high position & by subordinates. I would suggest that the 1st class sanad may be appropriately bestowed on Mamlatdars, Chief Constables, Forest Rangers, members of Dist. or Taluka Local Boards, Municipal Vice-Presidents and members, & the like. The 2nd Class Sanad would be bestowed on subordinate officials, such as Circle Inspectors, Jemadars, Municipal Secretaries & others who have acted in census posts not less than that of Supervisor. All Enumerators may be held eligible for a 3rd Class Sanad if they have performed specially good service. Village headmen & caste leaders would perhaps prefer papers or small cash payments.

3. I shall await your recommendations on these points. It must be remembered that they should be confined to the case of those who have specially distinguished themselves by their energy & care in arranging for the enumeration of the people.

Census of 1901.—
Collectors and Political Agents requested to submit a list of the villages for which the statistics for the — are missing.

General Department.
No. 5318

Bombay Castle,
17th September 1901.

Letter from the Provincial Superintendent of Census Operations, Bombay Presidency, No. 6367, dated the 10th September 1901 :—

"I have the honour to report for the information of Government that partly, I presume, owing to pressure of work and partly from a curious lack of interest in their charges many Mámlatdárs have apparently failed to keep any record of the census returns for each village in their táluka as declared in the week following March 1st last and are now writing me for the necessary figures.

"2. I did not propose to prepare statistics of the population of areas smaller than mahâls or towns, as I presumed that all Mámlatdárs would keep a record of the first totals for their villages, and these first totals are, I venture to think, accurate enough for all ordinary administrative purposes. Government, in Government Resolution No. 1264, dated March 6th, 1901, approved of my action in this respect.

"3. But the negligence of the táluka officials has rendered it necessary that in some cases the statistics should be furnished by me. I do not suggest that complete village population returns should be made out in my offices, as this will be a lengthy and costly undertaking. Some record of village population must however be maintained in the táluka offices.

"4. I have therefore the honour to propose that all Collectors and Political Agents of States attached to British districts may be directed to issue instructions to their táluka officials to the effect that in cases where no statistics of population for villages have been recorded in connection with the Census of 1901 a list of the villages for which the statistics are missing should be sent to me at a very early date in order that I may cause the deficiency to be made good from the records of my offices.

"5. As the latter will very shortly be closed on the completion of the abstraction and tabulation work, I would venture to ask that this matter may be treated as urgent."

RESOLUTION.—The proposal made by Mr. Enthoven in paragraph 4 of his letter is approved and should be carried out.

"I have the honour to report that the Abstraction and Tabulation work of the marginally noted States was carried out in the Central Offices instituted by me for the British districts, and to request that Government will be pleased to direct that an average charge of Rs. 3-12-0 per 1,000 of the population may be recovered from these States for the work performed.

Replies from Political Officers to the above-quoted Resolution.

Letter to the Secretary to the Government of India, Foreign Department, No. 4989, dated the 8th July 1902, as follows :—

I am directed to reply to Mr. Wood's letter No. 556-I.A., dated the 7th February 1902, regarding certain ethnographic investigations which it is proposed to make in connection with the Census of British India.

2. The ethnological conditions of many of the Native States in the Bombay Presidency are homogeneous with those of the surrounding British districts and in the case of the marginally noted States the Bombay Superintendent would probably not require any special correspondent in the State.

|---|---|
| Cutch. | Rewa Kántha. |
| Pálanpur. | Kolhápur. |
| Mahi Kántha. | Sávantvádi. |
| Káthiáwár. | |

3. Correspondents would probably be desirable in the marginally noted Agencies and will probably be obtained without great difficulty, judging from the experience of the compilation of Campbell's Gazetteer.

4. References have been made to the States in the sense desired in your letter under reply, but the system of work to be adopted does not seem to have been fully understood and the enquiries have perhaps indicated more assistance than will really be necessary. His Excellency the Governor is, therefore, I am to say, inclined to think it unnecessary to wait for complete replies, as he feels no doubt that there will be no serious obstacle to giving effect to the wishes of the Government of India in the Native State areas of this Presidency.

RESOLUTION.—Copies of the above letter to the Government of India should be forwarded to all Political Officers for information and communication to the Darbars under their control.

2. From some of the replies received to Government Resolution No. 1730, dated the 21st February 1902, the scope of what is required appears to have been entirely misunderstood in the Native States. As has been intimated to the Government of India in the above-quoted letter, the Governor in Council hopes that the necessary amount of assistance will be readily procurable when the Bombay Superintendent applies for it.
